BRAZIL'S REVOLUTION.
agitation in the province. The events at Rio Janeiro are considered to preclude the restoration of the Empire.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Times publishes a despatch bearing on the Brazilian situation which, among other things, says: "The matter is not yet certain, but personal observation in 1890 induced the suspicion that the change to a Republic was only the cloak to cover the ambition of certain demagogues, and not the decree of a nation. The jobbery, public robbery, and the lowering of the rate of exchange which have since occurred, have engendered the discord, which was the precursor of the present trouble. Northern Brazil is decidedly in favor of an Empire, and only in Central Brazil is the Republic considered proper. This may lead to Dom Pedro's grandson becoming chief of the state under a regency of three prominent citizens representing the Northern, Southern and Central provinces, and ensuring the unity of Brazil."
LONDON, Nov. 6.—A despatch from Rio Janeiro says that President Fonseca assumed the supreme command barely in time to prevent the fruition of a conspiracy to restore the empire. This conspiracy is known to have strong European support, and has been directed in Brazil by the adherents of the ex-Imperial family, who were permitted to return to or remain in the country. But for the President's action they would, it is said, probably have attempted a coup d'etat within a few days. As it is the Brazilian authorities are roused to the utmost vigilance, and both the army and navy are loyal to the Republic. Several arrests have been made, and those implicated will be dealt with severely. Others under strong suspicion will be expelled from Brazil. Entire tranquility prevails, and it is believed there will be no outbreak. President Fonseca is in good health, and has the loyal support of his ministers and the executive authorities in all departments. It is reported that the Count d'Eu, son-in-law of Dom Pedro, is at the bottom of the present effort to undermine the Republican government in Brazil. The Count, whose extraordinary arrogance and assumption had much to do with making the overthrow of Dom Pedro possible, has never been content to rest under the deprivation of his wife's magnificent inheritance. He is a thorough Bourbon and very pompous without ability to sustain his claim to respect and anxious to figure in the courts of royalty. The Count is known to have been in communication with the Brazilian revolutionists, and has been watched in behalf of the Brazilian government more closely than he supposed. It is not thought that Dom Pedro has any share in the conspiracy, or has even a knowledge of it. Fonseca's prompt action has undoubtedly caused some disappointment in certain influential circles in Europe, where the hope of the restoration of the Brazilian monarchy has never been entirely surrendered.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Secretary Blaine received a short despatch this evening, from Minister Conger, at Rio, stating that the revolution in Brazil was over, and that the army and navy and all other branches of the Government were under the control of President Fonseca. The despatch also states that none of the members of the Brazilian congress support Fonseca in the course he has taken, and that a new congress will be elected.

Crushing Parnellite Defeat in Cork—Redmond Rejected—A Peaceful Election.
Committal of One of the London Cheque Raisers—Excited Florentine Financiers.
Unrest in the Iberian Peninsula Concession by a Brutal Murderer in Paris.
The London Cheque Raisers.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—A man named Grant, one of the gang of forgers who have been engaged in swindling the London and Westminster Bank by means of forged cheques, was, to-day, committed for trial. During the preliminary examination the prisoner became very violent, cursing the presiding magistrate, and yelling out that he would rather be tried by drum head court-martial than take his chances where he was, or before the Court to which he stood committed. He was forcibly removed by the court officers. A fund for the detection of the rest of the forgers has been raised by a number of bankers, and it is hoped that the arrest of Grant will lead up to their apprehension.
The Cork Election.
CORK, Nov. 6.—The election passed off quietly, thanks to the precautions of the authorities. The count will not take place until to-morrow; but it is admitted that the majority for Flavin, anti-Parnellite, is certainly 1,000 and probably 1,500. Mr. John E. Redmond, the Parnellite candidate, admits his defeat, and attributes it to clerical intimidation.
Death of Parnell's Estate Agent.
DUBLIN, Nov. 6.—The sudden death of Mr. Kerr, agent for the property and affairs of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, at Avondule, will cause some delay and confusion in settling the estate. Kerr had everything at his finger ends and no one else.

Excited Bank Depositors.
FLORENCE, Nov. 6.—The bank of Florence failed to open its doors. The bank officers refused to make a statement. The assets and liabilities cannot be learned. Several exciting scenes were enacted in the bank. One depositor gained access to the president's office and, at the point of a pistol, demanded his money. He was persuaded to desist. A notice was on the door "closed temporarily."

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The Archbishop of Aix will defend himself in person before the court of appeals.
Return of Emigrants to Brazil.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—Eighteen distressed Brazilian emigrants have landed at Southampton. They went to Brazil from Bradford, Leeds, and others places in England, and tell harrowing stories of suffering. Nine of the party died in one day, and the survivors were too weak and sick to bury the bodies, which were pounced upon, and partly devoured by vultures. The party of which these 18 were the remnant, left England in March last.
Unlucky Crowned Heads.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—A despatch from Lisbon states that the Portuguese Government is seriously concerned at the growing signs of Republican and Radical unrest. The feeling that the present regime is unsafe and that there are volcanic forces smouldering beneath the monarchical form of government, denominates the court and the aristocracy. It is now pretty well known that the Spanish and Portuguese extremists, who, until recently, were led by mere dreamers and impracticables, have, of late, become better organized, with men of practical ability and definite aims at their head. The dream of an united Iberian Republic is less rosy than it was in the days of oratory and mystery, but the danger to the monarchy is all the greater. A practical plan of action, reduced to writing, is being promulgated throughout the Peninsula, and is receiving many adherents. The lists of the authorities have informed the Government at Madrid of the altered condition of the seditious movement, but the warning is treated with indifference, the Spanish dynasty feeling secure while the boy king lives, so great is the feeling of loyalty everywhere displayed. Hence in spite of the Barcelona outbreaks, no serious alarm is felt by the Government of Madrid, but at Lisbon the danger is considered too great to be ignored. There is a report current that Zorilla, the redoubtable Republican leader has recently, in the guise of a commercial traveller, visited the chief towns in Portugal, while it was understood that he was sojourning in Paris. He is said to have had much influence in organizing and inspiring the Radicals. It is known that a plot was recently unearthed at the manufacturing town of Elvas, near the Spanish frontier, which has caused the authorities much annoyance. A loyal sergeant warned the commander of the district that a certain corporal was a Republican agitator. The Colonel visited the Lisbon army authorities and was ordered to keep a close watch on the suspected man. The result was the discovery that the Corporal had frequent mysterious talks with several Sergeants, and that they together visited a house in the suburbs of the barracks, and blank forms, emblazoned with the insignia of the "Portuguese Republic," together with various other documents showing their disloyal purpose, were found in their possession.

Against a Presentation to McDermott.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—Sheriff Clancy, of Dublin, has protested against the intention of the Dublin National club to present McDermott with a gold-headed whip for horse-whipping Timothy Healey. The Sheriff, who is a Parnellite, has no objection to Healey's punishment; but he says that McDermott endeavored to prevent the burial of Parnell at Glasnevin, and that McDermott himself headed the undergraduates who insulted the Lord Mayor and Corporation for refusing to hoist a flag on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales.
Beholding of Troublesome Chinese.
SHANGHAI, Nov. 6.—Several Chinese have been beheld at Wuch Chang, by order of the Viceroy, for posting placards inciting to violence. Ever since the captain of the British gunboat Aspic notified the Viceroy that in case of further attacks upon foreign residents, the gunboat would shell his palace, comparative order has been maintained.
Government Improvements in India.
LONDON, Nov. 6.—Sir John Gorst said in a speech at Liverpool, to night, that the British Government owned 13,000 out of 17,000 miles of Indian railways, and had expended £9,500,000 yearly on railways and irrigation in India. The building of a railway to the Chinese frontier was proceeding.

A SILVER DIKE.
Another Marvellously Rich Strike in the Kaslo Creek Section Made Saturday.
Victorians Return from the Land of Promise—Prospects of Kaslo City.
A curious thing about the Kaslo Creek discoveries, which have monopolized the attention of Kootenay's mining men for weeks past, is that no one understanding the value of mining properties has yet visited them and returned with an adverse report. The nearer one gets to the camps, the more glowing are the descriptions on every hand; the miners are still flocking in, and recent finds are so rich as to cast in the shade those of the pioneer prospectors of the section.
Messrs. John Hendry, Alexander Even and W. C. Hayward, who are all interested in Kaslo City and the country tributary, have just returned to civilization. They went in by Revelstoke and came out by Spokane Falls, having seen and heard enough to astonish them. They are well satisfied with the prospects of the district, and the building of Kaslo City upon a firm foundation will go forward without delay. The city is located on the shore of Kootenay Lake, at the mouth of the Kaslo; about ten miles above Ainsworth and ten miles, in another direction, from the Hendryx smelter. The new place already boasts of a small, but comfortable, hotel, and a store is now in construction. The townsite, as level as prairie land, is being cleared of a scattered growth of hemlock, white pine and tamarack, and many lots have already been taken, whose owners intend to build on them at once. Provision has been made for the erection and operation of a saw mill, and 40 acres have been reserved for the purpose of a concentrator and smelter which may come in the near future. Mr. John Keen, C.E., was dispatched to the scene of operations this morning to complete the surveys for an extension of the present short trail, on into the centre of the new camps, which will be the home of many hundred miners in the spring. A second hotel is under contract, and while keeping their expectations well within the bounds of reason, the Kaslo City people say that they believe the new town will have a population of 8,000 or 10,000 in a year or two. It is a big thing to think or say; but time will tell.
The newly located claims, about which so much has been said, are scattered all around and above Kaslo city, the locations about which most has been heard being midway between Kootenay and Sloan lakes, on the ridge or watershed. Some four miles above Kaslo city, the creek forks, and a natural trail, which only needs improvement, follows the north fork into the heart of the camp. As soon as this path is made fit to travel, a pack train will be put in service, going as far up as Fish and Bear lakes, which are easily reached, probably this fall. At the present time, as many as seventy or eighty men are in the mountains, and there are upwards of 100 claims recorded. Messrs. Hendry, Even and Hayward brought down a number of common samples of the general ore, which runs all the way from 100 to 1,400 ounces in silver to the ton; 96 to 300 ounces is a fair average. The majority of the mines located are at an altitude of from 6,000 to 8,000 feet, and when a railway becomes a thing of necessity but little difficulty will be experienced, as the North fork provides a natural and easy grade.
Nearly all the claims are beneath the snow now, and little more work can be done until spring. Dr. Hendryx and his expert Prof. Parkes of New York were seen near Kaslo City lately. The professional gentleman is especially well satisfied with the country; in fact he says he has never before seen any part of the world, the quality of which he thought like the quality of ore to show that Dr. Hendryx shares his good opinion of the district, that he has located his smelter there, on the shore of the lake, where the ore can be brought in cheaply on scows from all around. Spokane Falls mining men are also very much interested.

Polynesian Slave Trade to be Suppressed—Germ ny Still Complain of Diseased Pork.

Meeting of Mining Shareholders in London Ends in a Fight—Monument to Mouraviëff.

Another Murder Mystery in Paris—Terrible Sufferings from Famine in Russia.

The tire of the driving wheels of a locomotive attached to a mail train proceeding from Bombay to Nagpur, on Wednesday, broke, and the carriages telescoped. Five railway officials and five British soldiers were killed, and thirty-one British soldiers and four natives were injured.

At a meeting in London of the shareholders of the Idaho Mining company, Mr. Marden, holder of 1,500 shares, accused certain directors of being dummies appointed through the company's solicitor, and said those directors' fees should be reduced. One speaker questioned whether either gold or silver had ever been got out of the mine. As the meeting was dispersing, a melee arose between Mr. Granton and Mr. Marden, who fought each other all around, knocking about the directors, shareholders, reporters and others, and overthrowing the furniture.

The slave trade between Queensland and several of the Polynesian groups has increased during the year, and it is said that the new Australian expedition will be partly utilized to put it down. The planters of Queensland claim that Polynesian labor is a necessity in that region where labor being scarce and the native blacks utterly worthless.

The London Chronicle's Berlin correspondent says: The burgomaster of Crefeld has ordered a strict examination of American pork imports in consequence of the discovery of diseased sides certified as healthy by American officials.

An unknown British steamer loaded with petroleum has been burned on the east coast of Cuba. Six persons were saved and the bodies of six men and one woman were washed ashore.

Severe snowstorms continue in Bulgaria. At some points the snow is 10 feet deep. Many persons have died from the effects of cold, and thousands of cattle and sheep have been lost. Numerous wrecks are reported in the Black Sea. Rain has fallen in torrents in the province of Malaga. The lower quarters of Gollia and Perchel are submerged.

A secret association has been formed among the Poles of Galicia, to keep alive the memories of the Polish struggle of about 30 years ago. The members have resolved to destroy the memorial to General Mouraviëff should Russia erect it at Wilna.

A sensational murder mystery is connected with the headless body of a man found in a cellar on the Rue Chausse in Paris. The authorities have discovered that the man was strangled before being beheaded. The murderers carried the bleeding trunk to the place where it was found from the spot where the crime was committed, and the place where the murderers hid the head is not yet discovered. A dock laborer named Vawort has been arrested on suspicion of being the murderer. He was seen to enter the house with a companion on Sunday evening and depart alone on Monday with a linen parcel.

Reports are increasing in number of thefts of grain in Stratoff, Russia, owing to destitution. In some districts the people eat the food refused by animals. A rumor is reported that mothers kill their children in order to prevent their starving to death. Famine has revealed the existence of considerable maladministration among government officials. Some of the ministers are likely to be dismissed.

All the employees of the late Charles Stuart Parnell on his Avondale estate have been dismissed, and the sawmill and Arklow quarries, which belong to the Parnell estate, are to be sold.

An English gentleman in Paris, who recently saw Dom Pedro, states that the ex-emperor exhibits the deepest interest in Brazilian affairs, but declines to animadvert upon the government. He has not yet given up all hope of being permitted to go back to die in Brazil, and would give any pledge to remain aloof from politics. Since the recent refusal of this concession, the ex-emperor has been waiting patiently for a change in the views of the government. His deep attachment to Brazil and his devotion to his devotion to that country seem to be a passion, and indeed his only remaining passion.

Politics are quiet in Paris; but it is feared there that the Emperor may have some lurking ideas about diplomacy. The saying of the Grand Duke, when passing through Berlin one month ago, is remembered. "My brother," said he, "will not come. He does not care enough for ceremony, but he goes to Copenhagen every year just like a city merchant, to dine on a Sunday with his father-in-law."

MR. BEGG AND HIS SCHEME.

TO THE EDITOR:—Mr. Beggs can scarcely be credited with candour. He does not deny that he and his associates expect to secure a gift of public lands. He merely says that they do not expect Sunday, the 1st November, to be written in such a way as to cast a reflection on the captain of that vessel. I wish to state emphatically, on behalf of that gentleman, myself and my officers and crew, that no steamer in the world could have done anything else but leave my ship, in such weather as surrounded us at that time. Captain Schjott did the only thing possible, under the circumstances, and I, never for a moment, believed that he could have acted differently to what he did. And furthermore, will you allow me to publicly thank the captain and crew of the Marie, who did everything that men could do to relieve our almost entirely hopeless condition.

Yours, etc.,
COLIN SALMOND.
Capt. S.S. Wellington.

THE ACCIDENT.

TO THE EDITOR:—Kindly allow me space to say that your reporter is wide of the mark in stating the cause of the horse-killing on Birdcage walk, last Thursday morning.

Neither the telephone nor the electric light wires contributed to the disaster. There is, indeed, not a telephone line on that side of the street.

I might be interested in explaining the cause of the accident, if I had any suspicion that it would be news to your item gatherer.

A BUSY MUSICIAN.

Frederic Archer Back in Victoria—He Speaks Pleasantly on Many Musical Subjects.

On Thursday night, Frederic Archer, the celebrated organist, arrived in Victoria from Chicago, via Denver. From Denver to Victoria he had travelled continuously, not stopping over anywhere. Mr. Archer was sent after his arrival by a Colonist reporter, to whom he related some interesting gossip about the musical world.

"Since I left here early in the present year, I have been playing in almost every part of the States and Canada. In the summer I took a good long holiday at Mackinaw, and the rest did me a great deal of good. Last May, I had the honor of playing the opening performance on what I think is the best organ in America. It was at the church of Notre Dame in Montreal. The largest instrument in the country is in the auditorium at Chicago. I have made the 'Porkopolis,' as they call it, my home. It is a wonderful city. When I played in the Auditorium, last year, I was astounded at the magnificence of this building. The hall will hold eight thousand people, and there have been plays already produced there in which there have been nearly six hundred people on the stage at one time. It is a most gorgeously building outside, but the acoustic properties it possesses are something marvellous.

"Yes, I can assure you that I have had some strange experiences during my travels, and many wonderful adventures with organs. You know it is my custom never to look at an organ before I give my recital, and sometimes when I have seated myself before one in a new town and tried a note or two, I have felt like exclaiming myself. But I have never disappointed an audience yet, and I have always gone right on. If they could stand it, I managed to brace myself to it. I find, however, that in a great many small cities there is more musical enthusiasm displayed than in very large towns, and the most critical, keenest musical audience I ever played to was in a town smaller than Victoria.

"My method of playing compositions of the great masters is to follow out what I believe to be their ideas, and I try to work faithfully in the groove laid down, and to give every attention to melody first, last, and all the time. I am sorry to see that the exponents of color, and musical gymnastics have been getting so numerous of late years. To-day they are met with everywhere, but I am positive that soon there will be a relapse, and in place of the 18th school there will rise up the old methods of Mozart and Beethoven. It must come. This realism is at its height now, not only with music, but also with books, poetry, paintings, and society, and it must soon come to an end, simply because it is utterly unnatural, and everything unnatural is ephemeral. Already we see signs of better things, and I hope the time will soon come back when pure, strong melody will resume its position and utterly displace the acrobatic 'lightning artist' style of thing that preponderates to-day. The other day, to give you an illustration of popular taste, I was in Denver, and a friend induced me to go to a fashionable concert given in that city. An Italian, called Ravetti, came out and improvised a solo on the saxophone. Without exaggeration it was one of the most wonderful musical feats I ever heard, and was positively grand. Well, not two hands went together in applause when he concluded. About three items further on a woman appeared on the stage; she sang 'Comin' thro' the Rye' in a most fearful manner, with hardly half a dozen notes correct, and she was applauded to the echo and recalled for an encore.

"I consider the English the best makers of organs, and the French, to-day, the finest composers on the instrument in the world. Gounod is magnificent. His work is without a rival in its class, and he is my favorite. I am more sorry than I can tell to know that he is at the point of death. Some of his compositions will never be surpassed."

Mr. Archer plays here on Monday night and on Tuesday leaves for Puget Sound, where he has several engagements. He will then tour the whole coast down to Florida, and will play three times in Texas.

HARPER VS. CAMERON.

The Case Drawing to a Close—The Defendant in the Box.

How the Promissory Notes for $50,000 were Obtained from Plaintiff.

The case of Harper vs. Cameron was continued yesterday, when some very material evidence was adduced.

Messrs. Richards Q. C., and Bodwell, instructed by Mr. L. Crease, appeared for plaintiff; Wilson and McPhillips for defendant.

The defendant, Cameron, was again put in the witness box.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bodwell he said that when he had the offer of $250,000 for the Lightning Creek mine, it was under condition that he was to pay $50,000 commission. The sale was to have been conducted by Mr. Bradley, who had a two-roomed office on Broad street.

"Did Mr. Bradley have any offer for this mine?" asked counsel.

"He showed me some letters from an English firm," replied witness. "I don't know what was offered by them; I don't know what became of the letters; I don't know where Bradley is now, and I have made no exertions to secure Mr. Bradley as a witness."

Did you afterwards offer Bradley $100,000 commission if he would sell the property?

Witness—I said I thought we could get the property back if he could sell it at $200,000, and that he would get a big commission. I noticed no great change in Harper after the accident, except that in 1884 he could not remember my name. He went to California, and when he came back he was an intelligent man, but had aged somewhat. I knew that all Mr. Harper's property was sold by the receivers, and that this was the result of my action against Harper.

Re-examined by Mr. Wilson—I obtained $5,000 from Messrs. Allsop and Mason, on the security of the judgment against Harper.

"At the time you acquired this lease did you think it a good scheme?"

Mr. Richards—Good for him or good for Harper? (Laughter.)

Mr. Wilson—Answer the question.

Witness—It was good for anybody going into it in my mind. I think Lightning Creek better than Horseshoe.

Arthur Richard Wolfenden, a former employee of Mr. Wilson, was examined by that gentleman, and identified the writ of summons served upon Harper by him. The writ was served on the 1st of December, 1888, and was to recover a sum of $50,000 on a promissory note, John Cameron being plaintiff. An order of postponement of sale was also identified as having been served upon Mr. Helmecken and others, and also one upon Mr. Drake, acting for Harper.

The Registrar of the Court was put in the box and identified several affidavits, etc., which were given into his custody, also a list of judgments obtained against plaintiff since August, 1880, up to present date, totalling about $250,000.

Lindley Crease also identified certain documents emanating from the office of Drake, Jackson & Helmecken, with which firm he was connected at the time.

Benjamin Van Volkenburgh deposed that he knew the defendant and his brother, Jerome Harper.

Witness did business with Jerome & Toomey in 1866. In 1867 Jerome Harper bought Pat Gannon (witness's partner) out, and after Jerome's death, Thaddeus Harper sold Jerome's interest to Isaac Van Volkenburgh.

Thaddeus Harper then went into cattle dealing, and started with some 900 head of cattle for California. It took about two years to drive them there, and the speculation did not pay. The first year's driving would cost about $5,000, and the second year about the same. Witness was Harper's agent in Cariboo, and bought flour from him there and some beef cattle. Harper told him that he had purchased a lot of property in California, and some mines. Harper seemed to be under the impression that there was a great deal to be made out of mining.

About 1868 Jerome and Thaddeus were discussing business. Thaddeus wanted to invest his cash in mines, and Jerome objected, and recommended that the cash be let out on interest. In 1870 witness endorsed some papers for plaintiff. During his agency in Cariboo plaintiff did a good business. In 1880 he went into partnership with plaintiff, but the partnership was dissolved in court. Plaintiff said the mill built at Cacine Creek cost about $30,000. His object in putting it there was in expectation of getting the flour or bread contract for the railroads during construction. At the dissolution of the partnership plaintiff drew $80,000. The $90,000. The Stewart ranch, which plaintiff bought in 1885, was worth about $10,000. He was generally of a speculative turn of mind.

Cross-examined by Mr. Richards, witness said that prior to the accident Harper was a fair business man, otherwise he (witness) would not have gone into partnership with him. Up to the time of the accident, in 1884, Harper could furnish security for any money he wanted.

Mr. Richards—Then do you think that after the accident Harper would have become bankrupt, had he continued to transact his business as he did before the accident?

Witness—I believe he would have become bankrupt.

Mr. Wilson—Did you ever know him to speculate successfully?

Witness—I never did. On the dissolution of partnership I had to pay in $12,000 to make up the shares.

Hon. F. G. Vernon, Commissioner of Lands and Works, deposed to knowing the plaintiff, and meeting him in the Okanagan country in 1885. In that year the plaintiff tried to buy 1,000 head of calves, to fill an order, which he had taken from Oregon. He asked witness to sell the number requisite to make up his total. At that time Harper was anxious and worrying about business matters, and claimed that he was in debt and danger.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bodwell—Then Harper contracted to supply 1,000 head of stock and could not do so?

Mr. Vernon explained that this was nothing extraordinary. A man was often disappointed in his stock. He knew Harper before the accident, and found that he always had very hopeful notions of mining. It was not a customary thing to sell calves, but Harper at the time said that he was hard up. He had known Harper for twenty years, and always found him speculative.

Witness was asked if he considered 18 per cent. an exorbitant rate of interest. He replied that it might be even cheap under certain circumstances. He had paid it himself when he wanted money, and saw that it was to his advantage to get it.

A deed of assignment was handed in, by which Harper assigned to T. R. Smith and H. A. Mason, for the benefit of creditors. It was dated Aug. 22nd, 1888.

Supreme Court, when Ezekiel Harper was plaintiff-respondent in a case on appeal, was read, as showing the sanity and intelligence of present plaintiff. The Court adjourned until ten o'clock, this morning.

NOTE.—In our issue of Nov. 6, Mr. Holland was reported as having stated in his evidence, in the case of Harper v. Cameron, that his company (the B. C. Land & Investment Agency, Ltd.) made $50,000, being the difference between the amount of mortgages and the purchase price. Mr. Holland should have been reported as having said that the $50,000 was the company's margin of security; not profit. On the contrary, in the evidence it was shown that the company sustained, through Harper's assignment, a loss of $12,000.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

The Manitoba law, intended to do away with denominational public schools, has been declared by the Supreme Court of the Dominion to be invalid. This was expected by many who understood the law and were acquainted with the circumstances of the province. The British North America Act, which is the Constitution of the Dominion, is very clear on the subject. It restricts the power of the people of some of the provinces on the subject of education. Where separate or denominational schools had been established, previous to the entrance of a province into the Confederation, they cannot be abolished. In Ontario, for instance, or Quebec, no matter how much the people may dislike separate schools, or how much they may disapprove of denominational teaching in schools supported by the taxes paid by men of all creeds, they have no power, until the Constitution is changed, to make public education unsectarian. Section 93, of the British North America Act, reads as follows:

"In and for each province the legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education subject and according to the following provisions:

"Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to Denominational Schools, which any class of persons have, by law, in the Province at the union."

There are three more sub-sections, the object of which appears to be to make the first one more restrictive and more binding. All that the upholders of denominational schools have to do in order to make any un-denominational school law that any province may pass of no effect, is to show that at the time of union denominational public schools existed in that province. This was attempted to be done by the advocates of separate schools in New Brunswick many years ago, but although they could prove that grants of public money had been made to denominational schools by the Legislature of the province, they were unable to convince the judges that such gifts could be regarded as a right or a privilege with respect to the schools to which they were voted, or that they gave a right or privilege to any class of persons in the province of New Brunswick. The point was a nice one, and that province narrowly escaped having separate schools fastened upon it for all time, or as long as the Constitution of the Dominion endures.

In Ontario, separate schools are regarded with dislike by a large proportion of the people, and if it depended upon the popular will they would not exist for a year longer. The provision of the Constitution, which prevents the majority establishing the school system which they regard as best suited to the circumstances of the country, is looked upon as an improper restriction of the power of the people, and appearances indicate that the day is not far distant when there will be an agitation in that province to have the Constitution amended in this particular. One effect of this last decision of the Supreme Court will be to widen the area of discontent. The great majority of the people of Manitoba are not favorable to separate schools. The law abolishing them met with their hearty approval. It is not likely that they will be content to see them continued against their will. What action they will take it is impossible to foresee, but it does seem as if this school difficulty must be productive of trouble in this Dominion in the not distant future.

ANONYMOUS WRITING.

Every now and then we observe some sorely pressed newspaper correspondent or some severely criticised public man, inveighing with more or less bitterness against anonymous writers and anonymous writing. The writers are condemned as cowardly, and the writing denounced as not worth noticing, because it is not over the signature of some well known person of standing and character.

We will, we hope, be pardoned when we say that most of this condemnation of anonymous writing is wretched nonsense or senseless clap-trap. What the people want of those who undertake to write on public topics is good sense and the truth clothed in decent language. They do not care three straws about the writer. If an article is uncommonly good a few people may express some curiosity as to who is its author, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred no one gives a second thought to the writer, no matter what the quality of his production may be. And this is as it should be. A name, let it be of ever so respectable or ever so able a man, cannot transmute nonsense into sense, or falsehood into truth. Neither can the want of a name make that unreasonable which recommends itself to men of sense as reasonable, or untrue what the writer has shown to be in accordance with facts. The name is just as likely to lead the reader astray as not, as it distracts his attention from the intrinsic merit of the article.

Of course, what we have written relates to the discussion of public subjects. When private character is attacked, or the private affairs of an individual commented upon, it should always be over the signature of the writer, or in some way that the writer can be held legally responsible for what he asserts. The reason of this is obvious. Personal attacks, whether signed or not, are nearly always unjustifiable. But it is sometimes necessary to put a flagrant offender in the pillory of the public press, and then the man exposed should be allowed every facility of obtaining redress, if he is calumniated or undeservedly injured.

There are many men who wish to comment upon a public abuse or to direct attention to some evil that threatens the community, who dislike publicity and who may not wish to expose themselves to the anger or the malice of the men whose dereliction of duty they comment upon or whose mischievous designs they battle. What they write for the general welfare, and the community is often benefited by the note of warning they raise. It is unreasonable to hold that they should be punished for the good they do or even attempt to do. Anonymous writers are often public benefactors, and as long as they confine themselves to their legitimate sphere they should be upheld and encouraged. When they go outside that sphere then anonymity does not avail them. The writers who vilify and slander their neighbors, whether they do so over their own names or over a nom de plume, seldom escape the punishment they richly deserve.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT CROP.

Some interesting calculations have been made as to the quantity of wheat that was raised in the whole world, last year. The Agricultural Department in Washington has gone deeply into the enquiry, and the conclusions arrived at are somewhat surprising to those who have not studied the subject.

The wheat crop of the whole world, in 1890, is estimated to be 2,255,000,000 bushels. It must be remembered that bread made of wheat flour is not the staff of life to a very considerable proportion of the human race. The number who chiefly subsist upon rice is very great. Maize is the chief food of many millions. Then there are races of flesh-eaters and fish-eaters. So the wheat crop, great as it is, is not by any means the food product on which the human race mainly depends for sustenance.

We find, as might be expected, that the United States is the greatest wheat producing country in the world. But there are some which follow it pretty closely. The United States crop was, last year, 399,262,000 bushels. Most people will be surprised to find that the country that comes next is a comparatively small one, not of much greater extent than some single States of the Union. France produced, last year, 338,902,124 bushels. India comes next, its crop was 235,345,000. Russia does not produce much more than half as much wheat as France; its yield was 197,739,200 bushels. Hungary comes close to Russia as a wheat-producing country, its last year's crop amounted to 165,345,000 bushels. Italy is not generally looked upon as a great wheat-producing country, but its product is far larger than that of Great Britain, being 126,610,746 bushels. Great Britain's crop was only 75,066,617 bushels, about five and a half millions more than that of Spain. Austria's crop was 51,440,667 bushels, and Germany's 94,889,840 bushels. Canada and the Argentine Republic are pretty nearly equal as wheat-producers, 39,231,412 bushels having been raised in the former country and 41,705,683 in the latter.

Taking the world by continents, Europe contributes 1,316,177,644 bushels of wheat to its stock of food, North America 438,495,412, South America 60,271,043, Asia 307,552,000, Africa 39,915,322, and Australasia 42,480,131. The proportion contributed by each continent is set down as follows:

	Per Cent.
Europe	58.9
North America	19.4
South America	2.7
Africa	1.8
Australasia	1.9

The number of acres under wheat in the world is not given, neither is the yield per acre. It would be impossible to find this out. Indeed, we very much fear that many of the figures given by our enterprising and inquisitive neighbor are only very rough approximations, but, allowing that they are no more, they are instructive and useful. With respect to the United States itself, there can be little uncertainty either as to the quantity raised or the yield per acre. The following is the information given and tabulated on that head.

The acreage, yield per acre and total yield of the United States for the past four years, are as follows:

	Acreage.	Yield per acre.	Total Yield.
1887	37,611,783	12.1	456,339,000
1888	37,333,138	11.1	415,848,000
1889	38,123,859	12.0	457,486,300
1890	36,057,144	11.1	400,262,000

Average.....37,297,231 11.8 440,505,000

The yield per acre seems to us very small, and does not say much for the fertility of American soil or the skillfulness of American husbandry. The complaint indeed is that the soil of the prairies, that was once so fertile, is being exhausted by over-cropping and bad farming in other respects, and that the average yield is getting to be less and less as time advances.

The crop this year is an exceedingly abundant one. It is estimated that this year's yield will exceed 550,000,000 bushels, and that the United States will have for export, after the home demand is fully supplied, some 200,000,000 bushels. This will go a long way towards supplying the European deficiency. It is calculated that the Dominion of Canada will be able this year to export at least 15,000,000 bushels of wheat. The time is, we trust, not very far distant when Canada will be one of the great wheat-producing countries of the world. As the reader sees it is now very far behind, but with its immense resources it will be certain in the course of time to take its place in the front rank of bread-producing countries.

ALREADY!

Brazil is already going the way of all South American republics. It has had its first revolution. The President and Congress did not agree. The President dissolved Congress. There was a popular disturbance. The military were required to maintain order. The mob were, of course, dispersed, and the soldiers then requested the President Fonseca to assume the supreme authority. Fonseca obligingly consented, and he is now Dictator with unlimited power. The leading men of the provinces hastened to low to the rising sun. They congratulated General Fonseca on the ability he displayed in maintaining order, and declared their willingness to do all in their power to aid him to govern the country. There are, of course, newspaper correspondents in Rio Janeiro who are ready to inform the world that everything is lovely in Brazil, and that the country is on the high road to prosperity. Not a great deal is yet known as to the true state of the country, but it is certain that popular liberty has been strangled in Brazil, and that the young republic is already at the mercy of a military dictator.

BABY'S FACE WAS RAW.

Distressing Itching Skin Disease Cured in One Month by the Cuticura Remedies.

When our boy was six weeks old he had a rash on his cheek. It spread on both cheeks and chin. His face was raw. I doctored with various remedies, but it got no better. My mother advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I used them faithfully, and in one week the boy looked better. In one month he was cured, and now he is three years old and no signs of it returning. The child was so raw that he could not lie in a pillow, and his hands were down so that he could not scratch his face. I cannot speak too highly of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I recommend CUTICURA whenever I can. I would be pleased to see anyone and talk to them of the good it has done my boy.

The Dates Arranged.
"Frisco Johnny" Williams, representing T. Henry French's Little Lord Fauntleroy company, reached Victoria, last evening, and completed arrangements for appearing here on Tuesday and Wednesday next. Williams' face is familiar here; he was one of the favorites with George Ulmer's old Volunteer company.

Christmas is Coming.
At a meeting of the Sabbath school teachers of the Gorge Road Methodist Church, held on Thursday night, it was decided to hold the annual Christmas entertainment on the night of the 22nd of December. In connection with the entertainment Superintendent Noah Shakespeare will give several good magic lantern scenes.

Plans Off to Go Wrong.
James Davis was committed for trial by the police magistrate, yesterday, on a charge of stealing a ham, a leg of mutton, and other eatables from the steamer Thistle. The case was a clear and connected one. Sergt. Hawton was walking on Store street, in company with Officer McDonald, late on Thursday night, or rather about two o'clock, yesterday morning, and saw Davis go into his cabin with a bag, filled with articles of some kind, on his back. It was a strange hour for moving, so the policeman listened at the cabin door, and heard the satisfaction of hearing a short conversation, in the course of which one said, "I'll make a better haul next time." This was enough to convince the sergeant that Davis was up to some dishonest work and he shadowed him. He went on board the Thistle, and was coming from with a second haul, when he was quietly arrested.

A Curious Mistake.
Coroner Morrison held an inquest on the body of the Indian supposed to have been found dead in Sanich on Saturday last, in the Provincial Court yesterday. The jury was composed of W. J. Phillips (foreman), A. B. Erskine, E. H. McNeill, John Beegs, Thos. H. Baker and Frank G. Moody, and the witnesses examined were Dr. King, of Blaine, Dr. M. S. Wade of this city, an Indian named Joseph and an Indian girl named Josephine of the Semiahmoo tribe, and the father of the deceased, a Sanich Indian, known as Bill. "Loxin Bill" was the name by which the deceased was described in the presentment, and the evidence showed that the Indian who hanged himself because his girl would not marry him till the priest came, and the Indian who was said to have been murdered in Sanich were one and the same. "Loxin Bill" fell in love with the widow of his brother, a girl named Louisa, of the Semiahmoo, and went to Blaine to win her. She said she would not marry till the priest gave his consent, and this he said to have sent Bill crazy. He went into the woods, where he was found by Louisa's little sister, hanging by his gaily colored yarn belt to the limb of a little maple. Dr. King said that he believed strangulation had caused death, though he made no examination of the body; Dr. Wade, who made the post mortem, found a discoloration about the neck, but none of the other and usual signs of strangulation. The body externally, and all the organs examined, were found in a healthy condition, and the doctor declined to express an opinion as to the cause of death. The jury returned a verdict of suicide by strangulation.

"Apples as are Apples."
Over two hundred barrels of the choicest winter apples,—Baldwins, Northern Spys, Greenings and Kings,—have just crossed the continent from Western Ontario, and arrived by the Kingston, last evening, consigned to Mr. B. Gordon. The fruit stood the trip well, being now in as fine condition as when packed in the Eastern orchard. Anyone looking for first class apples will know where they can be found.

The Buggy Smashed.
Yesterday morning, Rev. M. C. Browne was coming into town in his buggy, and on passing the Roman Catholic Bishop's palace, on Yates street, his horse stumbled in the hole from which the hydrant used for the fireman's celebration had been withdrawn. The animal fell heavily, throwing its driver out and completely demolishing the trap. Fortunately, neither Mr. Browne nor the horse was very seriously injured.

Directors' Meeting.
The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association held their regular monthly meeting last evening, Dr. M. S. Wade, the vice-president in the chair. Reports were received from the various committees and officers, all showing a healthy condition of the work. Ten new members were received. $1,650 has been pledged toward the work during the ensuing year. The annual week of prayer commences next Sunday.

Civil Service Examinations.
The Civil Service examinations will be started in this city, next Tuesday, at 9 a.m. sharp, and will continue until Saturday, the 14th inst. The various branches of the exams are the Preliminary, Qualifying and Optional subjects, comprising penmanship, orthography, arithmetic, reading, composition, geography, history, grammar, transcription, translation, book-keeping, stenography and typewriting, the last five subjects being optional. The Council chamber at the City Hall has been procured, and here the thirty-five candidates will be put through their test by Rev. Mr. Browne, of Cedar Hill.

Visiting Victoria.
Mr. A. J. Kane, formerly of New York, and now of Oregon, is spending a few days in town. He was in the naval service during the American civil war, and, in 1864, while under command of Lt. Commander R. H. Lamson, of Portland, was blown up in the gunboat Commodore Jones and badly wounded. He entered the naval service in '61, when about 17 years of age, becoming ensign before he reached his majority. Having graduated at Harvard, he began the practice of law, in New York city, in 1871. In August, 1880, he went to England, and on the 30th of that month, was appointed consul to Dover, of the United States of Colombia, for the Cinque ports. About a year later, he was made consul in London for the United States of Colombia. In 1889, he returned to the United States on leave of absence, and, in 1890, tendered his resignation, being appointed clerk to the Governor and U.S. Naval Home, Philadelphia. When in London he was proprietor of the United Service Magazine for a time, and during the war was correspondent of the New York Herald.

Spiritualists' Social Dance.
About forty couples danced to the fine strains of music supplied by the Bantley family, at the Spiritualists' social dance, in Harmony hall, last night. An excellent programme of waltzes, polkas and other dances were provided for the gathering, which would have been much larger but for the wet disagreeable weather.

Presentation to Sergt. Holloway.
Sergt. H. A. Holloway, R. M. I. of the Waspette, was, last evening, presented with a beautiful gold-headed and silver-tipped Malacca cane by the members of the Victoria School of Arms. Accompanying the present was an address, expressive of the gratitude of the school for the valuable instructions given by the Sergeant during his stay in port. The cane was manufactured and engraved by A. A. Clayton, and was suitably acknowledged by Sergt. Holloway.

A Naval Reserve Brigade.
Mr. Alexander Begg, Crofter colonization commissioner, was entertained, yesterday, at luncheon, on the Waspette, by Admiral Hotham. The Admiral takes a lively interest in the Crofter settlement, from a naval point of view, as a large number of the west and north of Scotland fishermen are naval reserve men, and if, in their transportation to the Pacific Coast, it be arranged that they maintain their status and continue and utilize the drill on which they have already practised, their presence will greatly add to the naval strength of the Dominion in the West, should such services be required. If 1,250 families of Crofters settle on the Pacific Coast, as proposed, there should be, at least, one naval reserve man for every two families, which would form a brigade of over 600 trained men.

East Lynne.
Last night Philharmonic Hall was well filled with an audience that went away thoroughly delighted with the performance of East Lynne by the Belmont-Gray Imperial Stock Co. On account of the low prices charged by this company the public were not inclined to think that it was a first class show until the last couple of evenings, when those witnessing the performances were very agreeably surprised. The Stock Co. numbers among its performers several excellent artists, and, as has been said before, they put on a performance that should fill the Victoria Theatre, with prices twice as high as they are. East Lynne last night was well presented, and the applause that greeted the many interesting situations of this well known play was hearty and well deserved. Miss Kate Dudgeon, in the character of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine, performed a finished artist, and gave a perfect representation of her part. Cornelia Carlisle and Barbara Hare, represented by Miss Kittie Belmont and Miss Ella Damaris, respectively, were equally good, and in fact the whole cast was an exceptionally strong one. This afternoon, at 2.30, there will be a matinee performance of Uncle Tom's Cabin, played in the original, with all its jubilee songs. The public schools will be in attendance. Uncle Tom's Cabin will be repeated to-night at 8 o'clock.

Chinese Deportation.
DETROIT, Nov. 6.—Judge Swan, yesterday, delivered an opinion on the subject of Chinese deportation, perhaps the first complete ruling upon that question. The case was that of Chong Sam, arrested at Port Huron on July 14th, for having been unlawfully brought into the country. The Chinaman was examined by a commissioner and found in possession of a certificate issued by the customs officers of Vancouver, B.C., dated May 21st, 1891, permitting him to return to Canada. It was also shown that he had been arrested at Detroit June 23rd, and returned to Canada by order of Commissioner Graves. Upon the second appearance of the Chinaman he was ordered to be sent back to China under the ruling of one of the state departments, to which was referred the construction of the law. A brief resume of this decision is to the effect that the order of the commissioner directing the deportation of Chong Sam to China is reversed and the United States marshal instructed to cause him to be removed to Canada.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

Latest New York Markets—Henry Clew's Circular for Week Ending October 31st.

Much Expected from the Anticipated Large Drafts Upon the American Cereal Crops.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Money closed stringent at 7 per cent. The highest rate was 10 and the lowest 5. Exchange steady; posted rates 4.81 to 4.84; actual rates 4.80 for 60 days, and 4.83 to 4.83 for demand. Governments quiet; currency sixes, 111 bid; four coupon, 116; extended twos registered, 99½ bid. Pacific R.R. Bonds closed as follows—Union firsts, 107½ bid; Union Sinkings funds 105½; Centrals 106½ bid. The coal stocks, St. Paul, Atchison, Chicago Gas, Sugar Trust, Union Pacific, Wheeling and Kansas, Lake Erie and C.C. and St. Louis were about the only stocks that displayed any activity of moment on the stock exchange this morning. Prices opened irregular and continued irregular throughout the morning. The changes for the most part were fractional, and the dealings developed no feature of interest. There was considerable covering in the first hour, especially in Delaware and Hudson, which advanced 1½, and the rest of the list advanced slightly in sympathy; but in the second hour prices were weak. At noon they showed little change as compared with yesterday's figures. After 12 the market was excessively dull, and continued so up to the last hour, when the "bears" made a vigorous drive at the whole list. They hammered the leading stocks without stint and to aid them in forcing values down circulated a number of reports of an unfavorable nature; among them was a report that Jay Gould had suddenly expired, and another that he was dangerously ill. In addition to these it was rumored that a Chicago bank was in trouble and that a large failure in London was impending. One of the heaviest sellers in the closing hour was Addison Comstock, who gave orders to sell ten thousand Luckenbach and ten thousand Reading. These orders further tended to demoralize prices. It was ascertained on enquiry at Mr. Gould's residence at Irvington that there was absolutely no foundation for the reports concerning his health; but nevertheless they had their effect on the market before their contradiction could reach all the street. The higher rates for money to-day had an adverse influence on the market. The drain ranged from ½ to 4 per cent. Drexel, Morgan & Co. called in a large amount of their calls to-day. Closing prices: Pac. Mail, 35½; W. U., 81; Northern Pacific, 26; Northern Pacific, pfd., 71½; Northern Pacific 1st mortgage bonds, 110½; Canadian Pacific, 87; Great Improvement, 21; Union Pacific, 99; Missouri Pacific, 59½; T. & S. F., 41½; Oregon Navigation, 70; Central Pacific, 30; Texas Pacific, 112; Great Northern, pfd., 110; Manitoba, 112; Fargo Express, 138.

Henry Clew's & Co.'s New York Financial Circular, dated New York, October 31st, says: The interest in the stock market is almost entirely confined to the "room traders." The outside public are absent or listlessly waiting; the operators of large means and large transactions are waiting for prices to drop—although some think they are buying some specialties quietly—and London, though doing more than has been expected of it, is so vacillating that it affords no real support to the market, the trouble there being that purchases are constantly made in expectation of a rise at New York, which hope being daily disappointed selling quickly follows the buying. The constant attacks of the "bears" fail to produce any general or important yielding in prices. This suggests that there is confidence enough to induce persistence in holding; and probably also that margins are in good shape. These considerations make it probable that, if the "bears" are intent upon persisting in their efforts to break prices, they may find it to be a long undertaking and one that will need to be kept up until holders are willing to sell from sheer weariness of waiting.

The capitalist leaders see nothing in the situation to induce present buying, whatever may be their real views as to the future. Prices are certainly not temptingly low, some are high, all things considered. The great factors calculated to encourage a rise are, as yet, mostly unripe, and it is not wise to discount them too far in advance. Before the most active period of crop forwarding is due, some adverse accident may arise that would damp the ardor of the market; and it is regarded as quite possible that such influences may originate in London, where the money market is likely to take an unfavorable turn and where further trouble may develop out of the increasingly demoralized condition of Argentine affairs. The protracted apparently strained effort of the Bank of England to keep the money market easy is suspected to be possibly due, among other things, to a wish to protect the important class of houses dependent upon South American interests. These, among the considerations that make the leaders of speculation willing to defer buying until we are nearer to the maturer effects of our large crops.

Quite unexpectedly, the market is unfavorably affected by ominous symptoms of a freight war—one of the last things to be thought possible in view of the largest tonnage of agricultural freight waiting to be moved that has been known in the history of the country. The Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio are accepting reduced rates, and to meet their cuts the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific are making still larger reductions. It is hardly to be supposed that the other trunk lines can long withstand these attacks upon their business, and the case will be the more difficult to handle from the fact that the Canadian lines stand aside the operation of the Inter-State Commerce law. In a few weeks, the supply of freight will so far exceed the ability of the roads to handle it, that the strongest of all motives to maintain rates will be brought into play, and this affords a reasonable hope that this reckless competition may soon come to an end; but nevertheless there is at present an uncertainty about the results which is calculated to create caution in buying.

Simultaneously with the advance in the Bank of England rate to four per cent. came the news that Russia has forbidden the export of all kinds of grain. This, if true, would carry the implication that, in view of our abundant crops, the United States will be drawn upon for a large portion of the supply of cereals which has ordinarily been contributed by Russia. Should this prove to be the case, our crops would naturally bring higher prices than have been counted upon, and the addition to our exports would be a very important sale. If, therefore, the report of the action of Russia should be confirmed, we may anticipate a corresponding increase in the imports of gold and a movement of grain to the seaboard which it will require the utmost capacity of the railroads to accommodate. The two foregoing factors,—providing the one relating to Russia should prove real,—may, therefore, be regarded as introducing new elements of much importance to the course of the Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Flour fairly active and a trifle steadier. Wheat opened active, and 3 to 4 higher on buying by local "bulls" and higher cables. The market continued firm throughout the morning and, after midday, further advanced, on the report that Russia will issue her prohibition of wheat exports, on Nov. 15th. The late cables were also higher, and in the first dealings the market was excited and strong, closing 2½c. to 2½c. higher. Spot closed strong and 2c. higher. Spot sales of No. 2, Red, Winter at 1.08; No. 2, Red, Winter, 1.07½; do. December, 1.08½; do. January, 1.10½; do. February, 1.12½; Sugar raw, quiet, but firmer on reports of frosts in Germany and the Brazilian political complications. 89 test muscovado 3c.; 96 test centrifugal 3 5-6c.; refined steady; cut loaf and crushed 5 1-8c.; powdered 4 3-8c.; granulated 4 3-16c. to 4 5-16c.; cubes 4 5-8c.; mould "A" 4 3-8c.; confectioners' "A" 4 1-8c. Coffee spot lots dull; fair Rio Cargoes 15c. Futures closed low. Rio or Santos Nov., $11.94; do. Dec., $11.79; do. Jan., $11.40; do. Feb., $11.25. Hops continue strong. Pacific Coast, 1891, choice, 18c. to 18½c.; common to prime, 14c. to 17c.; common to choice, 12c. to 16c. Nothing doing in London. Petroleum closed 57½c. Tin flat and dull. Strait spot $19.75; Jan. $19.80. Copper heavy. Lead nominal. Domesics pot $4.40. Spelter unchanged. Iron neglected.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Cattle receipts, 10,000. Market about steady; common to extra shipping steers, $2.75 to $6.00; stockers and feeders, $1.15 to $3.50; cows and bulls, $1 to $1.74. Texans, $1.25 to $3.25. Hog receipts, 35,000. Market weak and 10c. lower; heavy, $3.95 to $4.25; mixed and medium, $3.80 to $4.20. Light, $3.40 to $3.95. Sheep receipts, 5,000. Market firm; poor to choice, $2 to $5.25; lambs, $3.00 to $5.40.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Bradstreet state that Montreal reports favorable prospects, with fair activity in most lines, including a better demand for grain. The bank clearings at four Canadian cities aggregated $21,954,758, this week, an increase of 19 per cent, compared with last week. The Dominion reports 43 business failures this week against 37 last week, and 37 the same week last year. The total number of failures from January 1st to date is 1,557 against 1,369 last year.

SEARCHING FOR WATER BY THE ROD.

(To the Editor of the Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News.)

Sir,—Among your illustrations in last Saturday's Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News is one which describes the process of "searching for water by the rod." It may interest some of your readers to learn that this device is not unknown in the Canadian Northwest, where a twig of a Canadian willow is often used for the purpose, a peach twig being esteemed the best. At Cardston, N. W. T., where I was quartered for three years, this useful kind of occultism was frequently practised, and, wherever it was tested by digging, water was always found, and always within two feet of the depth quoted by the practitioner. So far, then, the presence of water would seem to be one of the conditions that must obtain before the rod will act. But the intervention of something else, which is still a mystery, seems also essential. Before our "water wizard," as we used to call him, appeared in Cardston, I had become the owner of a good-sized building lot within the town. On this lot he assured me, after going over it with his rod, that there was "a drop of water." I was not slow to dig and ascertain, and was rewarded by the discovery of a perennial spring of most excellent water at a distance of seven feet from the surface. Through the hottest summers, when other wells have dried, mine has continued its beneficent flow. I hardly know whether it is wise to mention here that on every spot where the rod moved in the hands of the "wizard," it moved also in mine, though less forcefully. On my own place, as already noticed, it would not work in any hands. From these experiences I am inclined to think, at least as regards peach and willow, that a twig of either will miss quite as much water as it will ever find. Yet even with this limitation its utility is beyond question.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
MATTHEW STENHOUSE.
Edinburgh, N.B., Sept. 30.

THE NEW MARKET.

TO THE EDITOR:—While a majority of citizens will admit that a public market is a very desirable institution in any city, if properly regulated, and that where it is properly regulated it is generally a success, yet, may I ask, does any one suppose that the splendid structure that we have erected this summer will ever be a success as a market, in its present position. It could scarcely be in a more out-of-the-way place. If one happens to have business in the city, anywhere between Government and Douglas streets, and desires to go to the market, he must either proceed down to Government street, a block, and then up through Chinatown to the market, or else go up a block to Douglas street, and down through Chinatown a block. Whichever way he does it, it is very inconvenient, and the public will soon weary of it.

I am not going to suggest that we remove the market building from its present site, as I consider the site good, but I would suggest that the Council purchase or expropriate for the city the intervening piece of land at the north end of Broad street, between Pandora and the market (about 60 by 80 feet) and so continue Broad street to the market entrance. No doubt if it were deemed advisable to request them, the property owners on Broad street and that vicinity would be willing to contribute to that end to some extent. I would certainly aid very much in making a success of our market, and a good business opportunity for Broad street, and relieve Government street of its too heavy traffic.

No one can stand at the corner of Yates and Broad streets, and looking towards the market, fail to be impressed with the idea that Broad street should be continued through to the market, and it is to be hoped the Council will do a little "rustling," and have the street graded through before the grand promenade opening.

THE INSIDIOUS FOE!

It Cannot Be Quarantined!

MORE TO BE DREADED THAN SMALLPOX OR YELLOW FEVER!

Thousands of our wise and thinking people, as well as many of our best physicians, are seriously of the opinion that our Dominion will be visited again this autumn by that insidious foe, La Grippe. We believe that even now this dread disease has obtained an entrance in some districts, and is of a very fatal character. We should remember that this terrible enemy is more to be feared than smallpox or yellow fever, as its victims cannot be quarantined or isolated.

The ablest physicians of the world advise particular preparation in order to combat this deadly trouble. They recommend that the weak, nervous, sleepless, gloomy, morbid and dyspeptic fortify themselves at once for the coming evil. It was proved to the satisfaction of all, in previous epidemics of La Grippe, that Paine's Celery Compound accomplished more for those who were not thoroughly strong than any other known remedy. It was used by thousands with untiring success, and physicians everywhere prescribed it with pleasure and confidence. Paine's Celery Compound is the only preparation that can brace up the weak, make them robust and healthy and give a perfect digestion.

It is earnestly hoped that thousands of our Canadian people will use it in time this season, before they are attacked and laid low and helpless by this unrelenting foe, La Grippe.

The use of Paine's Celery Compound by the indisposed, brain-tired, over-worked and nervous will certainly prevent the Grippe microbe from fastening itself upon such victims. We trust our people will listen to advice and reason before it is too late; prevention is better than cure.

AUCTION SALE OF VALUABLE

WATER LOTS

VANCOUVER CITY

I am instructed by the Honourable the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, to sell by Public Auction, on SATURDAY, NOV. 21, AT 2 P.M.

In my Rooms, 408 Hastings St.

LOTS 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 & 6, Blk. 1.

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 & 8, Blk. VI.

As shown upon the Official Plan of the Town of Granville.

I would particularly call public attention to this very important sale, the lots having 66 ft. Frontage, and being, strictly speaking, the Water Lots of this City. It would be difficult to estimate what they will be worth in the next ten years. These embrace all the water front on the Inlet from Carrall to Cambie streets.

The commendable policy pursued by the Provincial Government in selling such choice property by public auction, thereby giving every body a chance to compete, is an opportunity which none should allow to pass. I have simply to urge everyone not to miss it. Prepare for it, as this is the opportunity of a life time.

Terms will be made known later.

A. M. BEATTIE, Auctioneer.

ested in the Kaslo Creek section, and will lend men and capital in its development.

About a mile to the southeast of the last claim, staked by the Hennessy boys, Messrs. Tom Shears, (Charles Chambers, Ed. Baker and Charles Kent, on Saturday last ran across what is evidently the same ledge, again. The lode was still running in the same general direction, but instead of being 20 feet wide it was from 100 to 150 feet in width. Nine locations were made in all, four of them right along the lead.

Several sacks of samples were secured and afterwards were tested at Nelson, the assays yielding 109 ounces and 120 ounces in silver respectively. The ore, but for its crude-like formation, might easily be taken for pure lead. The camp has been christened the "C" Chambers, after its discoverer, still another was made some few days before. What is now believed to be the same ledge as the Chambers, right south east of it, being struck by Jack Buchanan and his partner, Jack Evans. They have made no end of locations, and shipped a lot of samples for assay. Not one yielded less than 100 ounces in silver, and one ran as high as 1,400, or 160 ounces higher than the best result obtained from the Bonanza King.

S. S. Bailey, a practical mining man of Spokane, who has been over the ground, says of the new discoveries: "They are the biggest thing on the American continent. I verily believe. The dike seems to cross the formation of the country rock in a slightly diagonal direction. It is crossed in every direction by smaller veins, which are very well defined. This has given the discoverers in each case a great advantage, as they have thus been enabled to stake claims all round on the smaller leads. I have never seen a country which looked so favorable, and so universally full of rich minerals. The Brennan Camp, which is fifteen miles to the south-east, and the Jardine Camp, still nearer the lake, make nearly as good showings, so it is impossible to say how far the belt extends in that direction. To the north, the mineral belt appears to extend for many miles. The galena of the whole country runs very high. I myself have obtained assays ranging from 131 to 748 ounces of silver to the ton."

Another old resident of Spokane, J. W. Young, the well known Tacoma mining expert, has also a word of praise for the new camp. Says he: "I have now six men in the country and have been operating independent of everyone else. I have not seen the new discoveries yet, but I've visited the Seaton and Hennessy camp, and I tell you the Cour d'Alones is a baby to it. I am convinced that Kootenai district will yet prove to be one of the greatest and most valuable mining sections of the world."

NEWS OF THE PROVINCE.

Berry and His Girl Bride Cross the Fraser at Midnight in a Skiff.

A Drowning Tragedy at Ladner's—Miraculous Escape from Frightful Death.

(From Our Own Correspondent).

WESTMINSTER.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 6.—It is learned that Lillie Lambert and John Berry did not elope by way of Victoria, but crossed the Fraser at 11 p. m. in a small boat, and made their way to the American side. Nothing has been heard of them since, and it is expected they are married by this time.

Edward Vaughan, bookkeeper at Ladner's new cannery, situated a mile and a half below Ladner's landing, and Wm. Null, a painter, left Ladner's about dark on Wednesday night in a canoe. Vaughan was returning to the cannery and Null was going over to Lulu Island to paint a house. A heavy gale was blowing when they left, and the river was very rough. Yesterday afternoon two fishermen noticed a canoe, bottom up, on Woodward slough, and pulling over it, found some weight was holding the bow line down in the water. On pulling up the rope they were horrified to find at the end the dead body of Edward Vaughan. Several turns of the line were around the upper part of the body, as if deceased had endeavored to swim ashore with his boat after it upset. In one hand was grasped a bunch of tule grass, showing he had nearly succeeded in reaching shore when his strength failed. He was known to be a powerful swimmer. No trace of Null's body has been found. The inquest on Vaughan's body was held today, and a verdict of found drowned returned. Both were young men and hailed from eastern Canada. They have no relatives in this country.

VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 6.—R. C. Ferguson and E. Hart had a narrow escape, this afternoon, while driving in a cab across the Cambie street crossing. A locomotive struck the cab just as it was clearing the track. The cab was completely smashed, but the occupants escaped unhurt. The driver alleges he didn't hear the engine bell. McCullough, who was arrested in connection with the death of Pound-keeper West, was released this morning. Nothing could be found against him.

Last night, the Health committee placed a guard on the Chinese lepers, and they still remain under watch and ward.

NANAIMO.

NANAIMO, Nov. 6.—The coroner's jury, to inquire into the circumstances attending the death of Charley Stewart, was empanelled, to-day, and viewed the body, then adjourned until to-morrow. The funeral took place during the afternoon, many sorrowing friends expressing their sympathy by attending.

The steamer Empire, which arrived from San Francisco, yesterday, reports the weather on the trip up the coast has been ever encountered on this coast. No damage was done the ship.

The Miners and Mine Laborers' Protective Association hold a mass meeting in the Opera House, on Saturday afternoon.

A. E. Planta, of the firm of Planta & Co., has gone to Vancouver to make final arrangements for the transfer of Nanaimo property amounting to about $25,000.

The Alberni mail is delayed owing to the falling of trees across the road. The stage was left nine miles on the other side of Mc Carter's.

The Tyler case was dismissed to-day, as no further adjournment was asked for.

KOKSILAH.

KOKSILAH, Nov. 6.—Sergeant Langley and officer McNeill, of the Provincial police, came up from Victoria by train this morning, with the intention of securing Joe Blair, who shot the Chinaman Wah a few nights ago. Blair evidently had heard that the police were after him for he came in and surrendered to Sergt. Langley and was by him turned over to the resident authorities. Blair admits the shooting, but says he had a row with the Chinaman and shot in self defence. The weapon used was a 44 calibre revolver, and the wounded man, who was shot in the shoulder near the neck, is sufficiently recovered to be walking around again. Blair will no doubt be committed for trial for the Assassins.

NORTHFIELD.

The warrant for the arrest of Joseph Lucas, the defaulting real estate clerk, was not issued yesterday; the parties applying thought there would be nothing gained by his being arrested, as it was known that he had blown in all the various sums he misappropriated. Several people in Northfield are very much upset over Lucas' departure, he had not only helped himself to church and club funds, but had also borrowed money right and left, besides keeping for his own use all payments made on property he sold. It was the intention of some of his victims to have given him a free ride on a fence rail

TO DEPOSITORS.

The British Columbia Land and Investment Agency, Ltd.

(SUCCESSORS TO ALLSOP & MASON.)

In view of the low rate of interest given by the Dominion Savings Bank Department, and the restrictions imposed as to the amount to be deposited, this Company is now prepared to receive money on deposit, in large or small amounts, at interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, and on favorable terms as to notice, etc.

The offices of the Company have been removed to 40 Government street, the premises lately occupied by the Telegraph Company.

to the lake and there in to have bothed him. It seems that Mr. Lucas' character is rather a bad one. Before taking up his abode at Northfield he had been located in Victoria, working in a real estate office, he had to leave rather suddenly. His loss was felt so deeply that quite a large sum of money was offered to anyone who would bring him back. —Free Press.

A new departure has been made in the American Consular service here by the appointment of Mr. C. C. Morell, as Vice-Consular Agent here. The papers concerning his appointment were received from Washington, yesterday afternoon, by Mr. Franklin Pierce, the American Commercial Agent. Mr. Morell has received this appointment that he may act with the full powers of the Commercial Agent should Mr. Pierce be prevented, through sickness or other cause, from attending to the duties of his office. Mr. Morell has been for twelve years connected with the Standard Oil company, and the fact that he has been their representative in New York, New Orleans and London, Eng., shows what confidence that company place in him. As a business man, he possesses the confidence of everyone, and a more suitable appointment could not be made. —News-Advertiser.

CHILLIWACK.
"United States detective Delano," says the Chilliwack Progress, "who came here a short time ago in search of a man that went by the name of Burney Lambert, who is wanted on the other side of the line, being implicated in the murder of some 34 Chinamen on Snake river, Oregon, some time ago, succeeded in locating his man on Saturday last, and on Monday morning took the steamer Irving for the Mission with the criminal in charge, where they boarded the train for the other side. Several petty thefts were committed by this villain during his short stay here, he at various times relieving his comrades of small sums of money and other valuables."

Mr. Rider, of Chilliwack, has taken to Vancouver a specimen of marble found in that district. Of course it is only a small sample, but the discoverer alleges that his find is in large quantities, and of a good quality.
